“ Jessica for most of my memories as a child I remember wanting to be just like you. I remember sitting on the front porch while you taught me to braid hair. I remember dancing with you while listening to TLC "scrubs" for the hundredth time. I remember you and I having some very deep talks through the years as I got older. I remember babysitting your kids. I remember your smile. But most of all I remember your heart and full of love it was. You were always a ray of sunshine in a cloudy room. Today I heard a song we had in common and you used to say was our jam. I can't talk to you any other way so I did this instead. I miss you girl. I hate that I don't run into you anymore at normal spot. Was always weird that it was the same spot Everytime. Haven't been there since though. I love you Jess. Forever.
