“ I met Russell in fourth grade. What I remembered most about him then was his beautiful handwriting. He was quiet and shy as was I back then. In high school he was always nice when we passed in the hallways. I had no idea my younger sister would fall in love with him and marry him one day. I was honored to be there as a witness to their wedding in Florida many years ago and thought he was a handsome groom.

In the hospital I had the opportunity to pray with him and Russell prayed with me and reconfirmed his faith in Jesus Christ. Russell was very humble and sweet and unassuming in a precious way. I'm thankful for the memories of playing pool at my house and going to a Redskins game together before his back pain started. I will miss seeing him with Trish at holidays and special occasions. Thank you for loving my sister and being a faithful husband to her. You are loved and missed already brother. I'm thankful you were a believer and we have the assurance of being reunited some day. I'll see you when my time comes to go home. I hope you get to be the drummer in heaven's band! Rest In Peace with Jesus. 🙏❤️✝️

“ I've known Russell for many years. He was a shy quiet 'boy' in school and grew into one of the nicest people I know. So caring, nice, and sweet. Gone too soon my friend. I take comfort in knowing you are now in a place we can only imagine. ❤️

“ I met Russell in high school , we grew up those years in the same neighborhood and had some good times and made fun memories . Russell was always shining with a smile and a good word . The world is less than it was and he will be missed . Rest in the arms of Jesus .

“ Russ was a friend for over 50 years, and my bandmate for 40 of those years. Soft spoken, kind and a student of music - he was our backbone in the band and he loved being behind his drum kit. Your Six Shooter brothers will miss you deeply Russ but we're grateful for many happy memories that we shared. Love you brother.
